ABA Definition of the Month

Antecedent strategies are implemented before a behavior occurs, especially during stable functioning. These strategies aim to decrease the likelihood of unwanted behaviors.

Examples:

- Providing choice-making opportunities (e.g., "Do you want ___ or ___?")
- Using a visual schedule to outline session tasks (e.g., Play → Brush teeth → Do chores → Play outside → Do homework → Eat dinner → Brush teeth, etc.)
- Setting expectations (e.g., "When we go outside, we need to close the gate, keep our hands to ourselves, and have our listening ears on for cleanup time.")
- Premack Principle (e.g., "First ____, then ____")
- Priming (e.g., "In 5 minutes, we're all done with _____. In 5 minutes, we're going to do _____.")
- Arranging the environment for success (e.g., placing reinforcing items at a high level to increase manding trials)
- Reminding the client of available reinforcement (e.g., "If we collect all 5 tokens, we can go outside and play with water balloons.")

These antecedents are listed in your client's Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) and are tailored to each client's needs. If you're unfamiliar with your client's antecedent strategies, reach out to your supervisor for clarification

. They are preventative, and good prevention is KEY!

Dont forget to collect signatures on NPA GO and render the appointment!

Friendly Reminder!

Please make sure to submit your SOAP notes daily on Catalyst.

Please charge your tablets before session!
